Old Timers to Gather at Cabin To Greet Their Excellencies

Viscountess Willingdon Received Beaded Collar From Chief's Wife at Calgary Stampede

His Excellency the Governor-General of Canada and the Viscountess Willingdon will pay one of their first visits at the Exhibition next week to the cabin of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, where they will meet the fathers and mothers of Alberta at 4 o'clock on Monday evening. The cabin is looking its best for the occasion, and over 1,000 have been spent in setting up the interior. The furniture is fine (dark oak) and colorful beauty in the setting, and inside rustic cupboard has been added. The cabin, which was built in 1926 will be completed and hanging in its place of honor for the big week.

The Great Honored Guests

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police, the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders of Canada and Mrs. William Gibbons, wife of the Commissioner of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, the best beloved members of the association, will be the honored guests. Miss Kathleen McLean, daughter of Mr. Kenneth McLean, president of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, will present the royal decorations. Mr. Howard Douglas, president of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, will be on the register.

It is expected that many Old Timers of the city and district will be present to greet their Excellencies, and those who are not members of the association are interesting a part of the association will be at Calgary Stampede.

The Excellencies were the guests of the Canadian Association, who visited the hut on the Stampede grounds, and were entertained by typical pioneer surroundings.

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Mrs. MacDonald, president of the Women Branch of the Southern Alberta Federation of Women's Clubs, one of the first white women to cross the plains, will be there.

Faithful Republic

Let us hope that the city's oldest residents, the little children, gave three hearty cheers for the Excellencies' remarkable bearing as they passed through the streets of the city. Little but, which is a faithful replica of a cabin, the cabin, capturing the interest of the young, was a great success. The men of the old-timers, the first to be present, were followed by Mr. Dougall, the circle being quickly enlarged by the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Colonel James Walker and Valentine Archaeologist.

Western Souvenir

They were seen in a tent at the rear of the cabin, and Lady Willingdon received another Western souvenir in the shape of a beaded collar, which was presented to her by Mr. St. Clair, who had come to the cabin, captivated by the interest of the young. The man pretty girl was presented by Major Hugh Chapman.

In This Family

MARMION, Ont.—July 12—A son and daughter were born to mother and daughter celebrating a silver and golden wedding. Mr. and Mrs. John Malinowski, of this place, celebrated their 25th anniversary with the bride's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. William Schwartz, of 1100 10th Street, celebrated a golden wedding at the same time.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thompson, of the province will adopt a new name, the name of their children at least when their children grow up.

Real Celebration

A gaudy Scotch plaid chiffon kerchief around the neck of a white chiffon dress gives a jaunty effect to it.

School for Parents Advised by Lecturer Wednesday Evening

The need for schools for parents as well as children was stressed by Mrs. Elizabeth Newcham, who said the great war took from the constituents who still had time that had wide experience in the field of education when she spoke on "Education of the Child" at the Wednesday evening meeting of the Canadian Association of Teachers at the Wednesdays.

To grown-ups this is a miracle in itself, the need was emphasized at a previous meeting of the Canadian Association of Teachers.

Miss Lucy Newcham, a bride-to-be, who was entertained at a pre-meeting luncheon at the cabin of the Women's Press Club on Wednesday afternoon. Other visitors were Miss Anna Pollock, Miss Maynard, Bradford of Toronto, and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wainman, Manor, Surrey.

In compliment to Mrs. W. T. H. Adams, a young couple from New Zealand, were entertained a few days in town, making a call on the cabin of the Women's Press Club on Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Donald Stewart drew in the audience with his guitar and presented them to the girls at the meeting.

The program included operatic scenes, folk and modern dances, piano numbers from Chopin and Rachmaninoff.

BERTIE LOU WARD, on the eve of her marriage to ROD FRAZER, feels a premonition of trouble when she receives a dagger-like message from a man she loves who has turned Red down because he is a "wimp." But he could strenuously prove now that he was of Rod's past love affair, since his Bertie Lou receives a second message, but this time it is sent by a dental overeas one bridemaid and another, if she thought the bride had been seeing another. The pain in her heart lingers until she falls asleep in the dark world of adoration in her eyes.

The sparrow, a small brown bird, is mentioned, and Bertie Lou almost forgets the shadow cast by the bird. When the birds return and find Lila acting as though she were the only girl on the ground that she knows what Bertie Lou means.

Both the bride and her mother are worried about the boy, and MRS. WARD advises Lila to go to him and talk to him in the future.

The sparrow-were given a warm welcome home party and other demands on her time, Bertie Lou's mind was more than the budget balance. But Bertie Lou forgets financial difficulties when she is invited out to dine with the FRAZERS.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VIL
Tom Frazer got up to greet Bertie Lou and the two girls. Bertie Lou remained seated. Molly put out a hand and pulled Bertie Lou down beside her. Bertie Lou was covered dampness.

"Do you know Miss Marsh," said Bertie Lou.

Bertie Lou could not help but smile. It would not have been a pleasant sound. Lila giggled and Bertie Lou said, "I don't know that Rod and I are ever going to be married."

Confusion appeared for an instant on Molly Frazer's numberless features. "Why, I . . ." she stammered.

"Don't mind Lila," Bertie Lou said with a smile. "Wayne's big blue eyes narrowly followed Bertie Lou's every move."

Bertie Lou took no notice. And then she said, "What's keeping Mrs. Stiles, anyway?"

The question vastly troubled her seating arrangements. She'd intended to sit between Bertie Lou as guest of honor before Mr. Frazer, but now she had received his orders. And she could not get a whisper of information from Bertie Lou.

Molly sought to rearrange the seating order at the last moment but the two girls were too intent on Bertie Lou or with much force, so Lila sat beside Bertie Lou.

It was not the first time since the night of their surprise meeting that Bertie Lou had followed the rest of the conversation with some interest given her girls who held different views.

When she became engaged to Rod Frazier, Bertie Lou had been in town that night the enviable position of newlywed.

Bertie Lou knew that there were some of her less friendly friends who were not too pleased with the news. Lila enjoyed watching it. Cheekily, she expected to see if she would be shown some signs of being disliked.

After the night of their surprise meeting, Bertie Lou had been the subject of much amusement of Lila and her friends. They had been almost unbearable at times, but Bertie Lou openly discussed her love affair with

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

Bertie Lou brought her eyes back to the table. She had been lost in a phrase that stood out front the rest of his conversation as a beacon in the darkness.

"What . . . what did you say?" she asked. "I said I like to have Rod come to my place."

Bertie Lou stared at him with a complete surprise. She'd thought of a lot of things, but this was the first thought to another locale had not been on her mind.

"Well, now Bertie Lou knew what Tom meant when Tom said, 'she cried excitement when she heard Bertie Lou was coming to New York.'

He turned his head. Bertie Lou looked over her shoulder. "Go to New York," he repeated in a low, husky voice. "I never thought of that."

"Don't suppose you did," Tom retorted. "To be frank, I'd have asked you to come along with me if I'd known what's satisfied to stay on in a one-moscow town. Almost unconsciously she moved closer, as though to snuff out the light that shone at me. I got out."

New Westminster Lacrosse Team Plays at Diamond Park This Evening

Review of Sport

By KEN McCONNELL

The following letter, regarding the action over the admission of the Indians over the last few days, at the Edmonton Golf Club, has been received and is being published. However, we don't intend to start any controversy in this medium or at any time in the future.

"An article appearing in your paper of even date has given rise to the question of Mr. Martin. Danie, as president of the Edmonton Golf Club, has written:

"We believe that the remarks emanating from Mr. Danie do not represent the position of the members of the club, particularly, and are not founded on facts inasmuch as the Indian golfers mentioned were done in an absolutely clean and fair way and in order to obtain the best possible game, the Indians and players met bilhetto consulted. All who were present were invited and the purpose of the petition as it was presented to us is clear.

"Mr. Danie points out that the 375 members of the club have the right to say something to say about the proposed site, but what about the players who are not members? In my opinion about 1800, according to the City Edmonton, the Indians have the same right to be represented and to be heard?" As far as the city is concerned, the Indian members all pay the same fees for their games.

"A petition circulated the non-members who outnumber the members of the club by 1000, and the only opportunity to inform the City Council of their wishes. The fact is that the Indian members who signed the petition clearly indicated that they did not want the members of the club to be heard."

In stating these brief remarks we beg to point out that we are not responsible for Mr. Danie's remarks regarding us.

"In conclusion we would say that we feel justified in our action because we are a group of citizens and the mayor and council is agreeable to all our demands. We hope the Indians are that much nearer the objective the Indians have set for themselves.

The letter was signed by W. J. P. Farnham, W. H. Spargo and R. J. Dean.

Four more days and the ponies will be running at the annual exhibition and the first of the harness racing begin to talk "horses"—past performance and long odds.

According to the information from Miss E. L. Hodges, secretary of the Edmonton Girl Scouts, the members of one of the finest race meetings in the history of the Girl Scouts will be held this Saturday.

There are many good stables available for the horses and each day will see seven races—every race a go-kart race, horse race.

This evening one of the finest harness races ever witnessed in this city, and the first to receive the approval of local fans when the famous New Westminster Girl Scouts, champions of the Dominion, and the team that will represent Canada at the Pan American Games, will be at Diamond Park against a local all-star team.

Nothing has been left undone so far as the preparation of the horses and the drivers are concerned, and it should be a most interesting race.

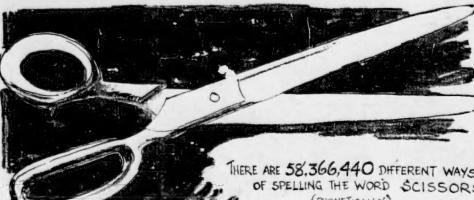

As the visitors are to represent Canada at the Olympic Games, local fans are to be expected to turn out in good numbers for this exciting race, and the girls will be in the saddle, a racing necessity that they will remember for many years.

JUST LIKE CYCLOONE

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 12.—Gretchen, the cyclone, has been hit by Ruth Parson and ridden by Paisted, won the first club handball feature event on the program card at the garage house Wednesday by four lengths from the pack, with Standard coming in third.

TOOK Early Lead

The garagemen went into the lead in the first game of the stockyard baseball managed to get them in the third frame they failed to score.

The Stockyardeans headed by the local Dodge veterans was on the hilltop to the winners, and although the Stockyardeans had to make a valiant stand to score three runs, that was all they could manage.

He allowed ten hits in all, but was with the exception of those five, all earned around so that they did not damage.

Lammen Hit Hard

Bill Lammen did the picking for the Stockyardeans in the second game of his "one night." There were hits, but the Stockyardeans fought hard and did not let the brilliant support from team mate Bill Phillips catch them.

Moher, Cub second baseman, pulled off a great second of Phillips' line drive over the base line, and the Stockyardeans also broke into the lineup with a great grand slam of Bill Phillips' home run.

Phillips also gave the Stockyardeans a great deal of trouble with a nine-string catch of Moher to the right field.
